Candy-Making an Art.

Editor, Tribune—That candy festival last winter, in which Mrs. Joseph M played so conspicuous a part, by rea last win tribune—Inal camby festival of last winter, in which Mrs. Joseph Mills played so conspictions a part, by reason of her having taught about fixty mostly pupils of our schools, the art of making candy, culminated in a surprise Saturday, the 24th instant. Her pupils gave a party the rith instant. Her pupils gave a party in the old statehouse, where a splendid programme was rendered. It consisted of songs, interspersed with dancea, games and instrumental music. In the midst of the whole, a halt was called and Mrs. I. E. Robison, one of the trustees, spring the surprise of the evening by making a meat little speech, thanking Mrs. Mills, on wehalf of those who had been benefitted by her efforts in teaching them the art of making candy. She uncovered a small stand, underneash which, mid a bower of beautiful flowers, rested a splendid aliver tea set, bought by those who made up the party as a testimony of their esteem, it is hardly necessary to add that Mrs. Mills was deeply affected. She said she would ever hold it, as well as the donors, in grateful remembrance. She axpected nothing when she undertook the task but a social good time. Overcome, she could say no more, but asked her husband to thank them as they deserved. Mr. Mills got up and stated that he was caught himself, and, visibly affected, he made a few remarks. A bountiful plenic was then served, after which more games more dancing and more songs, after which everybody departed, feeling better for having shown their good will. Mr. and Mrs. Mills have only been with us this winter, but they hold a warm place in the hearts of our people. School will slose on the ith of May, all but the eighth grade, which will continue for one or two weeks more. Mr. Mills is engaged again for next year. He is putting our high school, as well as our common school, on the bear of the common school, on the old statehouse, where a splendid weeks more. Mr. Allis is engaged agair for next year. STRONG STORY PUT UP BY POCATELLO BOY

Special to The Tellume

Special to The Tribune.

OGDEN. April 28.—Instead of being deserted in this city by his mother, as Leroy Ford, the youngster found wandering near the Rio Grande railroad yards yesterday, told the police, the boy was in Ogden beating his way to Salt Lake. The story he told the police was for the evident purpose of misleading them and to divert attention from himself.

Jalier Hagbert Anderson today telephoned the sheriff at Poestello, from whence the lad came to this city, and learned that the youngster had been missed by his family and that a search was already being started. The boy is now at the city jail, where he is being held until the arrival of some member of his family, when he will be taken back to his home. The lad figured in a similar runaway several weeks ago, but was caught at Sait Lake and returned to Pocatello.
